If you study the Talmud you please God even more than you do by praying or fasting.

~Abraham Cahan

Above all, you must fight conceit, envy, and every kind of ill-feeling in your heart.

~Abraham Cahan

You must never tire fighting Satan.

~Abraham Cahan

If a man is tongue-tied, don't laugh at him, but, rather, feel pity for him, as you would for a man with broken legs.

~Abraham Cahan

Remember that it is not enough to abstain from lying by word of mouth; for the worst lies are often conveyed by a false look, smile, or act.

~Abraham Cahan

Be modest, humble, simple. Control your anger.

~Abraham Cahan

I was a great dreamer of day dreams.

~Abraham Cahan

Life is much shorter than I imagined it to be.

~Abraham Cahan

God, for example, appealed to me as a beardless man wearing a quilted silk cap; holiness was something burning, forbidding, something connected with fire while a day had the form of an oblong box.

~Abraham Cahan

Only the other world has substance and reality; only good deeds and holy learning have tangible worth.

~Abraham Cahan

The orthodox Jewish faith practically excludes woman from religious life.

~Abraham Cahan

What is this world? A mere curl of smoke for the wind to scatter.

~Abraham Cahan

If you feel that you are good, don't be too proud of it.

~Abraham Cahan

The dearest days in one's life are those that seem very far and very near at once.

~Abraham Cahan

What is wealth? A dream of fools.

~Abraham Cahan
