Pride works frequently under a dense mask, and will often assume the garb of humility.

~Adam Clarke

Prayer requires more of the heart than of the tongue.

~Adam Clarke

If you be faithful, you will have that honor that comes from God: his Spirit will say in your hearts, Well done, good and faithful servants.

~Adam Clarke

This perfection is the restoration of man to the state of holiness from which he fell, by creating him anew in Christ Jesus, and restoring to him that image and likeness of God which he has lost.

~Adam Clarke

Now it would be as absurd to deny the existence of God, because we cannot see him, as it would be to deny the existence of the air or wind, because we cannot see it.

~Adam Clarke

I have lived to know that the secret of happiness is never to allow your energies to stagnate.

~Adam Clarke

Many talk much, and indeed well, of what Christ has done for us: but how little is spoken of what he is to do in us! and yet all that he has done for us is in reference to what he is to do in us.

~Adam Clarke

To be filled with God, is a great thing; to be filled with the fulness of God, is still greater; to be filled with all the fulness of God, is greatest of all.

~Adam Clarke

As preachers of the gospel of Jesus, do not expect worldly honors: these Jesus Christ neither took to himself, nor gave to his disciples.

~Adam Clarke

The same sun that hardens the clay softens the wax.

~Adam Clarke

But this Christ or Redeemer took not upon him the nature of angels, but the seed of Abraham, that is, human nature, that in the nature which sinned he might make the expiation required.

~Adam Clarke

Now an infinite happiness cannot be purchased by any price less than that which is infinite in value; and infinity of merit can only result from a nature that is infinitely divine or perfect

~Adam Clarke

Deeply consider that it is your duty and interest to read the Holy Scriptures.

~Adam Clarke

Remember that the word of God is not sent to particular persons, as if by name; and do not think you have no part in it, because you are not named there.

~Adam Clarke

He who is completely sanctified, or cleansed from all sin, and dies in this state, is fit for glory.

~Adam Clarke

Woe to that man who runs when God has not sent him; and woe to him who refuses to run, or who ceases to run, when God has sent him.

~Adam Clarke

They who pray not, know nothing of God, and know nothing of the state of their own souls.

~Adam Clarke

This is the case with thousands: they appear desirous of knowing the truth, but have not patience to wait in a proper way to receive an answer to their question.

~Adam Clarke

Death to a good man is but passing through a dark entry, out of one little dusky room of his Father's house into another that is fair and large, lightsome and glorious, and divinely entertaining.

~Adam Clarke

To suppose more than one supreme Source of infinite wisdom, power, and all perfections, is to assert that there is no supreme Being in existence.

~Adam Clarke

Man may be considered as having a twofold origin - natural, which is common and the same to all - patronymic, which belongs to the various families of which the whole human race is composed.

~Adam Clarke

All abuse and waste of God's creatures are spoil and robbery on the property of the Creator.

~Adam Clarke

There is no such thing as chance or accident; the words merely signify our ignorance of some real and immediate cause.

~Adam Clarke

Whether the family of the Clarkes were of Norman extraction cannot be easily ascertained.

~Adam Clarke

However, all gifts seem now to be absorbed in one and a man must be either a Preacher or nothing.

~Adam Clarke

Multitudes of words are neither an argument of clear ideas in the writer, nor a proper means of conveying clear notions to the reader.

~Adam Clarke

It is the grace of God, that shows and condemns the sin that humbles us.
