The evening sings in a voice of amber, the dawn is surely coming.

~Al Stewart

We measure our days out in steps of uncertainty not turning to see how far we've come. And peer down the highway from here to eternity and reach out for love on the run.

~Al Stewart

Jimi Hendrix played loud and free, Sergeant Pepper was real to me.

~Al Stewart

Look to the past and remember no empire rises that sooner or later won't fall.

~Al Stewart

You reach out your hand, but you're all alone, in those time passages.

~Al Stewart

Louis Armstrong playing trumpet on the Judgment Day.

~Al Stewart

Whoever you pretend to be, you must face yourself eventually.

~Al Stewart

She comes out of the sun in a silk dress, running like a water color in the rain.

~Al Stewart

I know there's a big bad world out there, but I rarely come across it.

~Al Stewart

There's room in the world for one historical folk-rock singer to make a decent living, and I happen to be it.

~Al Stewart

Nothing that's forced can ever be right, if it doesn't come naturally, leave it.

~Al Stewart

The literati in their cellars
Perform semantic tarantellas.
I wish I did it half
as well as them.

~Al Stewart

Movie queens diffuse into Cinema haze, while libertines read pornoazines in street cafes.

~Al Stewart

She doesn't give you time for questions as she locks up your arms in hers. And you follow till your sense of direction completely disappears.

~Al Stewart

Looking so cool, his greed is hard to conceal, he's fresh out of law school, you gave him a license to steal.
