That's where I'm comfortable - playing a jackass on the scene, rolling in with my pocket watch and my buffoon hairdo, with my shoes.

~Alan Tudyk

The wrinklier the raisin, the sweeter the fruit.

~Alan Tudyk

The reason I got into acting was the audience is right there and if you did something great they were right there and you knew it.

~Alan Tudyk

Those are always fun characters to play, the ones who are stupid but speak with authority.

~Alan Tudyk

It was great. We knew we were going back when we finished the movie. It was such a big movie [Star Wars].

~Alan Tudyk

C-3PO is flappable [in Star Wars]. [Kaytoo is] very unflappable compared to C-3PO, who is just flapping all over the place.

~Alan Tudyk

I trained as a stage actor and was given a lot of technical tools to play with.

~Alan Tudyk

I haven't been to too many cons since Star Wars, and I don't think it's really going to change until it comes out.

~Alan Tudyk

I've signed a few Kaytoo photos and things and a couple of action figures [on ComicCon], but really it's not that many.

~Alan Tudyk

I feel like it'll change after the movie [Star Wars] comes out, if it does. It's really the other way around, surprisingly, as far as Con Man goes.

~Alan Tudyk

I feel much more comfortable as an artist collaborating with others because I feel more mature.

~Alan Tudyk

Because I'm CGI, [John Swartz] gave me a role of an Imperial pilot in one scene, so I had a day where I was on camera dressed as a black suit and a little cap that they wear.

~Alan Tudyk

[Clowns] gotten a really bad rap in the last few years. People have really given into their own fears and have celebrated their fears in that way. American Horror Story didn't help.

~Alan Tudyk

[I'm] a huge defender of clowns around the world.

~Alan Tudyk

I don't wear jewelry, as a man.

~Alan Tudyk

I definitely knew how to fly. That's something you don't forget. One spaceship is pretty much like another when it comes to flying.

~Alan Tudyk

Gareth [Edwards] was very open to just shaping the performances and the scenes to fit what was happening with the actors and the storytelling that was emerging.

~Alan Tudyk

[Gareth Edwards] never wanted to force anything that wasn't true. He's very much an actor's director, and it was loose.

~Alan Tudyk

BB-8 [from Star Wars] his accent is so thick. You can't make out a damn word he says.

~Alan Tudyk

I actually oddly have done another robot motion capture. I did Sonny in I, Robot.

~Alan Tudyk

I like comedies, and my brain sort of spins in that direction. So I'm really happy to say there were several smartass comments that come from me [on Star Wars].

~Alan Tudyk

[Heihei] a really dumb rooster. You have to just turn the rooster so his head ends up hitting the grain. He's not smart enough to eat.

~Alan Tudyk

R2-D2 is like that, but I think because he doesn't speak actual words, his jokes don't land. It's really a hindrance. And the same with BB-8. But Artoo is a lot stronger.

~Alan Tudyk

It's closer to just acting in a film because it was a six-month commitment. We got to fly all over the world.

~Alan Tudyk

It's amazing how much actual chicken sounds lend themselves to stupidity.

~Alan Tudyk

[Heihei] is stupidest chicken on planet Earth and mascot.

~Alan Tudyk

When we recorded [Moana], I would do all of the stuff and then save all the big screaming for last so that you can really blow it out and ratchet it up every time, get that perfect panicked pitch.

~Alan Tudyk

This movie [Moana] has a very small cast, and this was the role [Heihei] that they offered me. I loved voicing him.

~Alan Tudyk

I love Diego [Luna Cassian]. Diego is very funny. He's a very cool guy. I'm looking forward to doing all the press stuff and getting to hang out with him and everybody again.
