Oh, grown-ups cannot understand, And grown-ups never will, How short the way to fairyland Across the purple hill.

~Alfred Noyes

Heart of my heart, the world is young; Love lies hidden in every rose!

~Alfred Noyes

There's a magic in the distance, where the sea-line meets the sky.

~Alfred Noyes

Happy, happy, happy for all that God hath done, Glad of all the little leaves dancing in the sun.

~Alfred Noyes

Beauty is a fading flower, Truth is but a wizard's tower, Where a solemn death-bell tolls, And a forest round it rolls.

~Alfred Noyes

Only in souls the Christ is brought to birth, And there He lives and dies.

~Alfred Noyes

Outlawed, but not alone, for Love is outlawed, too. You cannot banish us, proud world: We banish you.

~Alfred Noyes

Luke associates John with Peter in Acts, when, after the Resurrection, that strange boldness had come upon the disciples.

~Alfred Noyes

I'll come to thee by moonlight, though hell should bar the way.

~Alfred Noyes

Bring the buds of the hazel-copse, Where two lovers kissed at noon; Bring the crushed red wild-thyme tops Where they murmured under the moon.

~Alfred Noyes

If ever I had any doubts about the fundamental realities of religion, they could always be dispelled by one memory- the light upon my father's face as he came back from early communion.
