Latinos are a vital but underrepresented force in this country.

~Ana Ortiz

I was born and raised in New York City, Manhattan, uptown.

~Ana Ortiz

I think it's really important for my daughter to see her parents being physically fit and for that to be a part of her life. The examples we set for her will stay with her the rest of her life.

~Ana Ortiz

Being in New York City is the best because I'm always walking, taking the subway and walking up and down the stairs - whether you like it or not, you're going to get exercise.

~Ana Ortiz

I'm not so much surprised by the success of 'Ugly Betty' as I am feeling so blessed by it.

~Ana Ortiz

I'm passionate about mobilizing young Latinos to get to the polls, so I'm involved with Voto Latino. Latinos are a vital but underrepresented force in this country.

~Ana Ortiz

I will probably only give birth to two and then the rest will come to our family however it happens. I can only hold two, but you never know. I really want a boy because boys love their mamas!

~Ana Ortiz

My family couldn't be more supportive. They're worried and they're always in my business, and my mother does send me grad-school applications every now and again.

~Ana Ortiz

I don't relate to that angst-y kid who hates their parents because they were horrible. It's just not my life and it's not the life of a lot of my friends.

~Ana Ortiz

I couldn't have asked for a better kid. She's our own little Buddha baby so far. I'm waiting for the other shoe to drop to tell you the truth. It's like the calm before the storm.

~Ana Ortiz

I think New York is a really wonderful place to raise a child. There's so much available, and so much diversity and culture, lots of things to see and do. My whole family is here.

~Ana Ortiz

I've always wanted two kids. I've always wanted a girl and a boy.

~Ana Ortiz

I was really lucky. My gal pal was my mom.

~Ana Ortiz

I have a rescue dog named Fideo, which means 'noodle' in Spanish, and a cat named Hutch.

~Ana Ortiz

I spent my 30s figuring out how to be a grown up, I guess. I loved my 30s! My 30s were really about being happy with what I was doing.

~Ana Ortiz

I still feel like a kid sometimes myself so hard to believe that I'm a mom.

Now I'm an adult! It only took 38 years!
