~Andrei Platonov

Without truth I feel ashamed to be alive.

~Andrei Platonov

Happiness will come from materialism, not from meaning.

~Andrei Platonov

A man who's never seen war is like a woman who's never given birth - soft in the head.

~Andrei Platonov

The working class is my home country, and my future is linked with the proletariat.

~Andrei Platonov

I want my word to be up to the scale of the feat of arms performed by the Russian soldier.

~Andrei Platonov

If kids can forget their own mothers but still have a sense of comrade Lenin, then Soviet power really is here to stay!

~Andrei Platonov

What if we all suddenly get carried away thinking - who will be left to act?

~Andrei Platonov

My body gets weak without truth.

~Andrei Platonov

We can't feel anything - all that's left inside us is dust.

~Andrei Platonov

From our ugliness will grow the soul of the world.

~Andrei Platonov

If they don't think, people act senselessly.

~Andrei Platonov

I lived and languished.

~Andrei Platonov

Busy remaking the world, man forgot to remake himself.

~Andrei Platonov

Do you know how much thinking and feeling I've done? It's terrible. And nothing's come of it.

~Andrei Platonov

When you've nothing to live for, you get to thinking inside your head.

~Andrei Platonov

Does the world have nothing inside but sorrow?

~Andrei Platonov

Everything comes to an end, only objects are left to pine in the dark.

~Andrei Platonov

At the time of the Revolution, dogs howled day and night all over Russia.

~Andrei Platonov
