If you cannot love the pain, you can at least love the lessons it teaches

~Andrew Davidson

Perhaps there are just some things you leave behind when you choose a new life.

~Andrew Davidson

The urge is always with me to retouch yesterday's canvas with today's paintbrush and cover the things that fill me with regret.

~Andrew Davidson

If you listen to the wind very carefully, you'll be able to hear me whisper my love for you.

~Andrew Davidson

Who would have guessed that the monster of fraud was a democracy?

~Andrew Davidson

Heaven is an idea constructed by man to help him cope with the fact that life on earth is both brutally short and, paradoxically, far too long.

~Andrew Davidson

It doesn't matter how fast you move, I learned, if you never go anywhere.

~Andrew Davidson

Only a man unable to handle the actual world would create another one in which to hide.

~Andrew Davidson

Accidents ambush the unsuspecting, often violently, just like love.

~Andrew Davidson

Vanity is both a great motivator and a great deceiver.

~Andrew Davidson

Love is as strong as death, as hard as hell.

~Andrew Davidson

All history is just one man trying to take something away from another man, and usually it doesn't really belong to either of them.

~Andrew Davidson

I am not a hero in soul and never will be, but I am better than I was before. Or so I tell myself; and for now that is enough.

~Andrew Davidson

Everything burns if the flame is hot enough. The world is nothing but a crucible.

~Andrew Davidson

Things should be judged by distance traveled rather than by current position.

~Andrew Davidson

That which is painful sharpens one's love.

~Andrew Davidson

I envy all suffering, because suffering is necessary to become spiritually beautiful.

~Andrew Davidson

Love is an action you must repeat ceaselessly.

~Andrew Davidson

The true master knows that if he had a God he could understand, he would never hold Him to be God.
