

Andrew Rannells

Quotes

People, Thinking, Moving, Musical, Girl, Gay, Book, Actors, Kids, Majority, Laughing, New York, Theater, Feels, Men, Supportive, Shows, Casting, Made, Towns

My mother was predominately a stay-at-home Mom.

~Andrew Rannells

Always my fallback is - I'm gonna move to a poor town and open a scone shop.

~Andrew Rannells

Luckily for me I have a very supportive family and a loving group of friends.

~Andrew Rannells

Always my fallback is - I'm gonna move to a poor town and open a scone shop... Sometimes after some bad auditions I think, you know what - time to open that scone shop! Let's start baking.

~Andrew Rannells

This is a musical, ma'am. If there's no gay, there's a problem.

~Andrew Rannells

Even though I'm from the Midwest, the majority of my life has been spent on the coasts where being gay wasn't really much of a conversation.

~Andrew Rannells

My only goal is to make the crew laugh, basically. It's the only litmus I have to know, is this good or not?

~Andrew Rannells

I've certainly played those leading man or male juvenile roles, where you're not supposed to make people laugh.

~Andrew Rannells

I am mildly addicted to Mucinex-D. I feel like I should just come clean about that.

~Andrew Rannells

I figure, oftentimes the best way in is through humor, and you can deal with serious situations a lot easier, or at least bring up the conversation.

~Andrew Rannells

At a very early age I knew I wanted to be an actor and then more specifically that I wanted to be on Broadway and be in musicals.

~Andrew Rannells

I live in the East Village, and occasionally people will recognize me there. When I'm in Williamsburg, I always get recognized. Midtown, not so much.

~Andrew Rannells

I still can't shake the Nebraska off of me.

~Andrew Rannells

I'm 6'2 and not a small person.

~Andrew Rannells

I can't wake up at all without caffeine.

~Andrew Rannells

If you get into multicultural sort of casting for no other reason than to diversify, then it seems false.

~Andrew Rannells

As an actor, particularly in theatre, you're trying to get jobs on TV; but you're also losing jobs in theatre to people who are on television.

~Andrew Rannells

I think as a young person, you're kind of game for whatever sometimes.

~Andrew Rannells

I love doing both theater and television. I definitely foresee more Broadway, but I think I would like to keep the singing and the TV separate.

~Andrew Rannells

The majority of celebrities that come to the show actually don't come backstage. Because they don't know that they can.

~Andrew Rannells

I used to do community theater with Conor Oberst.

~Andrew Rannells

I've been pretty career-focused since moving to New York.

~Andrew Rannells

I love doing both theater and television.

~Andrew Rannells

I haven't really made up my mind concretely about having kids.

~Andrew Rannells

When I was a kid, there were hardly any gay story lines or characters on television that I recall. Then when I was in college, 'Will & Grace' started up.

~Andrew Rannells

Related Links:

- People Quotes
- Thinking Quotes
- Moving Quotes
- Musical Quotes
- Girl Quotes
- Gay Quotes
- Book Quotes
- Actors Quotes
- Kids Quotes
- Majority Quotes
- Laughing Quotes
- New York Quotes
- Theater Quotes
- Feels Quotes
- Men Quotes
- Supportive Quotes
- Shows Quotes
- Casting Quotes
- Made Quotes
- Towns Quotes