Please be a traveler, not a tourist. Try new things, meet new people, and look beyond what's right in front of you. Those are the keys to understanding this amazing world we live in.

~Andrew Zimmern

Don't eat till you're full, eat till you're tired.

~Andrew Zimmern

I don't want people to judge books by their cover, I want people to be open minded to the rest of the world.

~Andrew Zimmern

I was just thrown out of the barista parlor. Came to close to the Slayer. Amazing place!

~Andrew Zimmern

Being honest about where you come from and what your story is is the only way to connect to other people, to really connect with them.

~Andrew Zimmern

There's a great book by my friend Nate Garvis called Naked Civics that was very important in my development as someone with a social conscious and that has become, I guess, something of an activist.

The food stamp program is the largest piece of the Farm Bill, it's a massive amount of money, but not only has it been good for families that need it, but it's been fantastic for local economies.

~Andrew Zimmern

I think right now the focus of people involved in food issues have to be legislative resolution at the county, city, state, and national level. I just don't think we can run away from it anymore.
