Share yourself with others after you have first spent some time with yourself.

~Angel Olsen

A lot of people ask me if I'm OK. I'm capable of crazy - a lot of people are - but I'm OK.

~Angel Olsen

Sometimes I'll hit a note and sometimes I don't. Why not at least try?

~Angel Olsen

I sometimes write as if I were talking to myself, or to a mirror, or to someone for the last time. There's this element of confrontation.

~Angel Olsen

It's hard to force a relationship with a stranger even if they happen to be someone you happen to share blood with.

~Angel Olsen

Different cultures have different audiences.

~Angel Olsen

I just want to scream: "I'm being honest, I swear!" Maybe it's embarrassing, but I don't care anymore.

~Angel Olsen

I don't believe people when they say their songs have nothing to do with their personal life.

~Angel Olsen

People should know each other because they want to, because they have things in common.

~Angel Olsen

When people disappoint you, it's just as much your responsibility to be aware of it and what you don't want.

~Angel Olsen

I listen to tapes a lot. I have a car that only (has a cassette player). I like the nostalgic factor.

~Angel Olsen

I know it sounds so lame, but the songs are like my children.

~Angel Olsen

I'd rather people interpret the songs and get whatever they can out of them instead of thinking about me crying in a room with a guitar.

~Angel Olsen

There's a lot of expectation after you do something that seems to have been well received. It's kind of unfair.

~Angel Olsen

It's a bit of a weird thing to know that (my music) has translated to that many people.

~Angel Olsen

I'm letting the songs breathe and change and become what they are without force.

~Angel Olsen

I don't know what folk music means anymore, because the meaning of that just keeps changing.

~Angel Olsen

My first ever tour of my music was in the Netherlands. I didn't really have a grace period to grow or anything, people just started booking for me. I feel pretty lucky.

~Angel Olsen

I wasn't an only child, but I was the youngest, and no one else in my family played music.

~Angel Olsen

I've been writing a lot of songs in twos, songs that are like twins in my mind.

~Angel Olsen

I'm not trying to prove that I'm capable of doing many things.

~Angel Olsen

I guess that in a lot of ways, my writing is more of a character to me than something that I feel personally attached to.

~Angel Olsen

My family life, my adoption - it could be related to the songs, but I think the songs are deeper than that. They're not just about this experience.

~Angel Olsen

I'm ready to take on different selves and experiment and see what happens.

~Angel Olsen

Music is the first thing I ever cared greatly about. I've been singing and writing songs since I was six or seven.

~Angel Olsen

You want to create things as purely as possible without allowing the universe to interfere so much that it's manipulating it and making things unreal to you.

~Angel Olsen

I feel really good about the future and working with people.

~Angel Olsen

If you can't be psyched about your own thoughts, then how are you supposed to have a meaningful interaction with anyone?

~Angel Olsen

It's very important to enjoy time alone with yourself and just existing, because existence is kind of cool.
