I didn't know how to say goodbye. Words were stupid. They said so little. Yet they opened up holes you could fall into and never climb out of again.

~Ann Rinaldi

When I wrote, I felt better, as if I had remade the world all of a piece, the way I wanted it to be, not the way it was.

~Ann Rinaldi

A person has to be strong in life. A person must practice strength, even if they don't feel it.

~Ann Rinaldi

Most of our miseries we bring on ourselves. And they're the sum of our own stupidity.

~Ann Rinaldi

A person doesn't ask permission to fall in love; not even of themselves.

~Ann Rinaldi

Because I had already resolved that if you're afraid of love, your heart will break anyway, only in not half so nice a fashion as it does when you let somebody love you.

~Ann Rinaldi

You don't trade in the devil you know for the one you don't know.

~Ann Rinaldi

Are all American girls as daft as you, Rachel?" "I hope so," I said.

~Ann Rinaldi

No one is a virgin, because life has screwed us all.

~Ann Rinaldi

There are depths to the human soul that should not be fathomed.

~Ann Rinaldi

Doing good doesn't always make you feel good. I don't care what they tell you in church.

~Ann Rinaldi

Let me say the good are often punished unfairly.

~Ann Rinaldi

Sometimes it take courage to leave.

~Ann Rinaldi

Sometimes it takes courage to leave.

~Ann Rinaldi

When I write I am the real me.

~Ann Rinaldi

The most important thing we ever have to learn in life is to live with our choices.
