Sad old blokes, I'm told, now dream of me with a whip in hand.

~Anne Robinson

My accountant regularly asks to take me to lunch. I always say I can't afford it.

~Anne Robinson

Mirror, mirror on the wall, whos the dumbest of you all?

~Anne Robinson

My favourite designers are Alexander McQueen, YSL, Eskandar, Donna Karan and Lanvin.

~Anne Robinson

I was thrilled when a designer shop assistant said I was a size smaller than Madonna!

~Anne Robinson

I eventually got a job with a television company, started to see how exciting journalism could be as a career, and decided that was what I wanted to do.

~Anne Robinson

The Welsh... I mean, what are they for?

~Anne Robinson

I've always taken risks and bought property well. As journalism wasn't particularly well paid, buying homes and selling them for profit improved my income.

~Anne Robinson

I don't despise, because no-one should live rent-free inside your head.

~Anne Robinson

Being rich and miserable has got to be better than poor and unhappy.

~Anne Robinson

We mothers of grown-up daughters tend to view them with a mixture of love, exasperation, irritation and awe.

~Anne Robinson

My best business decision is always to have been unembarrassed about negotiating a decent deal. Not being coy or shy about money is second nature to me.

~Anne Robinson

I come from a family of traders; my grandmother and my mother were very good at making money.

~Anne Robinson

Balance sheets bore me. I suspect if figures had excited me I would have gone into the city and now be a lot wealthier.

~Anne Robinson

I am dating, but it is hard to find someone quick enough and funny enough. I am quite demanding.

~Anne Robinson

I saw George Bush at a benefit concert actually waving at Stevie Wonder. Someone had to tell him, 'He can't see you.'

~Anne Robinson

I adore clothes - they're my weakest link! My mother was the same, and she taught me always to look polished.

~Anne Robinson

In 2001 Steve Staunton became the record cap holder for which country? Brazil.

~Anne Robinson

In an ideal world, I'd be able to do my shows in my pajamas. Luckily I've got one of the best stylists in the business, Rebecca Allen - she knows what looks good on camera and gives it a sexy kick.

~Anne Robinson

I like to look put together without trying too hard. I don't want to look as if God's made another rainbow - I prefer muted, autumnal colours, like most fading redheads.

~Anne Robinson

I've had a lot of dates, but I don't think there's been anyone that special or important.

~Anne Robinson

I'm not going to marry a third time. It is just not necessary.

~Anne Robinson

Growing up in a business-orientated family meant that I naturally learnt the tricks of the trade.

~Anne Robinson

I do have a rule that very few meetings are worth more than ten minutes.

~Anne Robinson

Property is my major investment. My accountant has put money into various long-term savings arrangements. To be honest, I am a bit vague about all that stuff.

~Anne Robinson

I'd make banks more accountable. I think they should separate totally the personal banking arm with whatever else they are playing around with.

~Anne Robinson

I don't like the anonymity of the banking process - people now don't have a bank manager they ever meet.

~Anne Robinson

Every mother and daughter should make time for a trip together. It's good for the soul.

~Anne Robinson

I do think your attitude towards money is an inherent part of your character.

~Anne Robinson

Teachers are the worst. Just shameless about kicking off their rivals.

~Anne Robinson

I never wanted to run a production company. I didn't want to convert my life into running a business.... so I always resisted it and kept things simple.
