As a journalist, or an anthropologist, the convention is that people are there for you to study, and they are your objects.

~Annia Ciezadlo

The Middle East is the only region in the world outside of sub-Saharan Africa where rates of malnutrition actually rose over the past decade or two, instead of falling.

~Annia Ciezadlo

Which is one of the dangers of immersion journalism: you can find yourself getting sucked into battles you have nothing to do with, in this case an ongoing battle between Muslims.
