Nature is just enough; but men and women must comprehend and accept her suggestions.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

One thing is certain. I am not afraid to act as my conscience dictates, no matter what the world may think.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

The sexes in each species of being... are always true equivalents - equals but not identical.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

The law of grab is the primal law of infancy.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

There were angry men confronting me and I caught the flashing of defiant eyes, but above me and within me, there was a spirit stronger than them all.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

Any positive thinker is compelled to see everything in the light of his own convictions.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

Mr. Darwin ... has failed to hold definitely before his mind the principle that the difference of sex, whatever it may consist in, must itself be subject to natural selection and to evolution.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

We fully believed, so soon as we saw that woman's suffrage was right, every one would soon see the same thing, and that in a year or two, at farthest, it would be granted.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

Slavery is malignantly aristocratic.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

No matter what the competition is, I try to find a goal that day and better that goal.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

The brain is not, and cannot be, the sole or complete organ of thought and feeling.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

Plants live; how much they feel and enjoy, who shall say?

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

if human justice is to supplement Nature's provisions, all family duties must be shared equitably, in person or by proxy.

~Antoinette Brown Blackwell

Work, alternated with needful rest, is the salvation of man or woman.
