

Ari Graynor

Quotes

People, Thinking, Comedy, Baby, World, Pressure, Art, Writing, Character, Crazy, Laughing, Self, Real, Kids, Trying, Fall, Interesting, Smart, I Realized, Acting

I was more of the kind of babysitter that liked holding the baby, sort of playing Mom, and then putting the baby to bed and watching TV while eating everything in their kitchen.

~Ari Graynor

I did babysit a little bit when I was young. I prefer babysitting for babies. I always loved babies. I was not as great with kids that wanted to be entertained and that wanted to talk.

~Ari Graynor

I think the world of comedy is a relatively small community, and especially for women in comedy, there just aren't that many people involved.

~Ari Graynor

As an actor, when you're doing comedies, you're around fantastic, funny people and you hopefully have a really good time doing it.

~Ari Graynor

When you look at all of the male characters on television and in film, it's not like every one of them are the people doing the right thing that you can point to as your own moral compass.

~Ari Graynor

What I love about our show is that it's so nuanced and feels very real to me. I think how it explores creativity in general is very real.

~Ari Graynor

I think casting a show is an art form in and of itself. We're all so different - the cast is made up partly of real stand-ups, partly of actors, and then partly of just legendary actors.

~Ari Graynor

Twitter's a lot of work! That's the first thing I would say. There's so much pressure to be funny.

~Ari Graynor

I don't think there's anything more scary than being forced into doing stand-up comedy.

~Ari Graynor

It's the people that ultimately are less talented or have less confidence in what they're doing that then try to micro-manage, which lends itself to a less than ideal film.

~Ari Graynor

The best and most talented directors - and I think it goes for people too - are the most confident in giving room to their actors and trusting them.

~Ari Graynor

There's a certain truism that you can't be self-conscious in comedy. If I'm in it and if there's a scene that has a great set-up, I will go as far as somebody will let me.

~Ari Graynor

I can be such a people pleaser, and so worried about what people are thinking or feeling insecure.

~Ari Graynor

Comedy is funny when it comes from truth, and that's always the rule of them. It's about how far you can push that boundary.

~Ari Graynor

I think the good news for me in life is that I really trust my instincts when I come to work. Maybe less in life and in love, but in work and in comedic beats, I feel pretty confident.

~Ari Graynor

There is nothing better than a laugh in life. There just isn't.

~Ari Graynor

As I've grown as a person and gotten to know myself more - the question of how someone becomes who they become has gotten really interesting to me.

~Ari Graynor

Babies are born whole and then they go through experiences in life that chip away at some of that, and it becomes learned behavior.

~Ari Graynor

Stand-up comedy is still a very male-dominated world. You look at a set list and maybe there's one woman on there.

~Ari Graynor

Related Links:

- People Quotes
- Thinking Quotes
- Comedy Quotes
- Baby Quotes
- World Quotes
- Pressure Quotes
- Art Quotes
- Writing Quotes
- Character Quotes
- Crazy Quotes
- Laughing Quotes
- Self Quotes
- Real Quotes
- Kids Quotes
- Trying Quotes
- Fall Quotes
- Interesting Quotes
- Smart Quotes
- I Realized Quotes
- Acting Quotes