

Ariel Dorfman

Quotes

Country, Thinking, Imagination, World, Pain, Significance, Sides, Feels, Exile, Looks, America, Enemy, Blessing, Men, Memories, Darkness, Fate, Sleep, I Believe, Compassion

Responsibility without power, the fate of the secretary through the ages.

~Ariel Dorfman

We can live with lots of things, but we can't live without imagination, we can't live without hope.

~Ariel Dorfman

Those who have never suffered the iniquities of exile cannot possibly understand the significance, the gravitas, of a mattress.

~Ariel Dorfman

You can survive with anger, but you can't live with it forever.

~Ariel Dorfman

We live in the age of the refugee, the age of the exile.

~Ariel Dorfman

There's a tendency, especially among revolutionaries, to only show the good side of yourself and then when you come to power, the bad side comes out.

~Ariel Dorfman

I don't believe in God, but I believe in angels.

~Ariel Dorfman

Most writers who leave their country physically have already left it mentally and emotionally.

~Ariel Dorfman

This America has been the country of greed rather than the country of need.

~Ariel Dorfman

I feel as if I can take Indian stories, make them mine and take them to the world.

~Ariel Dorfman

I'm the most communal person that exists and a very solitary person. So I think writing is a form of getting to the community and being alone, and it's the best of both possible worlds.

~Ariel Dorfman

I'm a mongrel in the sense that I'm Spanish, English, Latino, Jewish, north, south - all these things are mixed in me.

~Ariel Dorfman

Related Links:

- Country Quotes
- Thinking Quotes
- Imagination Quotes
- World Quotes
- Pain Quotes
- Significance Quotes
- Sides Quotes
- Feels Quotes
- Exile Quotes
- Looks Quotes
- America Quotes
- Enemy Quotes
- Blessing Quotes
- Men Quotes
- Memories Quotes
- Darkness Quotes
- Fate Quotes
- Sleep Quotes
- I Believe Quotes
- Compassion Quotes