Threaten the balances of justice and you threaten the potential enlargements of mind and soul. Therefore justice is part of the safeguarding of the heart.

~B. W. Powe

Certainty is usually a sign of pathology.

~B. W. Powe

It began in images and it ended in symbolism.

~B. W. Powe

May the ability to see many points view keep us gentle.

~B. W. Powe

Alienation and loneliness plant the seeds for rebellion and consciousness.

~B. W. Powe

No rebellious heart is ever at ease with paths established by others.

~B. W. Powe

The Trojan War without Homer was nothing more than a battle over trade routes.

~B. W. Powe

A just society will appear less spectacular, and less clearly defined, than a society with totalitarian leadership, theocratic goals.

~B. W. Powe

The origin of corruption in politics is surely in the thought that you are the bearer of ultimate virtue.

~B. W. Powe

If you make things sound inoffensively obvious, then it is likely that no one will listen.

~B. W. Powe

Here I find a puzzle of great beauty: Canada works well in practice, but just doesn't work out in theory.

~B. W. Powe

Charisma is a sign of the calling. Saints and pilgrims are defiantly moved by it.

~B. W. Powe

Democracies should be a delirium of choices - more options, not fewer; more avenues to travel, not fewer.

~B. W. Powe

There is, it seems, an unbridgeable chasm between the concerns of a Sri Aurobindo and a Pat Robertson.

~B. W. Powe

If our dreams can last, then we could turn our time and place to gold.

~B. W. Powe

Followers of another political party tell us that we will strengthen ourselves by ignoring our history, our traditions, our mythologies, our culture and vision, and by following the American way.

~B. W. Powe

Canada is like several puzzles that we are all working on at the same time. Everyone has a part to add, but no one has seen the whole picture yet.

~B. W. Powe

The corporatist-economic model of society appears to be governing us. Economists, often in the pay of transnationals, are deciding, for us, what democracy is, and will be.

~B. W. Powe

There must be engagement: there must be protest.

~B. W. Powe

Enlightenment should be a human right.
