Travel is something that I like to do because it gives you lots of images, and it also really makes you think about your own place in the world in a very different way.

~Barbara Hamby

I've been writing fiction as long as I've been writing poetry. It's just that the poetry took off, and it took me a lot longer to figure out how to write a story.

~Barbara Hamby

I think it's really hard to be joyful. I work hard at it. I always feel like it's a choice. You can be joyful or you can be depressed, and there just doesn't seem to be any future in depression.

~Barbara Hamby

If someone didn't believe in me that would kind of be a compliment in a way.

~Barbara Hamby

I want a God big enough to love those who don't believe in him.

~Barbara Hamby

You want to make a representative selection, but at the same time, you want to give a sense of the whole project. I have this big conflict in my writing life that I'm trying to work out all the time.
