We have forgotten how to be good guests, how to walk lightly on the earth as its other creatures do.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

The gaps in power, the gaps in wealth, the gaps in ideology which hold the nations apart also make up the abyss into which mankind can fall to annihilation.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

in modern society, fear of unemployment remains the darkest of the shadows thrown by the past. In an industrial order, a man out of work is almost a man out of life.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

It is a truism that one person who wants something is a hundred times stronger than a hundred who want to be left alone.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

It is very much easier for a rich man to invest and grow richer than for the poor man to begin investing at all. And this is also true of nations.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

Faith will not be restored in the West because people believe it to be useful. It will return only when they find that it is true.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

I have the impression that when we talk so confidently of liberty, we are unaware of the awful ... servitude of poverty when means are so small that there is literally no choice at all.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

There is no human failure greater than to launch a profoundly important endeavour and then leave it half done.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

It is a fact of history that those who seek to withdraw from its great experiments usually end up being overwhelmed by them.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

Business shouldn't be like sports, separating the men from the women.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

The modern world is not given to uncritical admiration. It expects its idols to have feet of clay and can be reasonably sure that the press and camera will report their exact dimensions.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

If a man has lived in a tradition which tells him that nothing can be done about his human condition, to believe that progress is possible may well be the greatest revolution of all.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

the distinction between rich nations and poor nations is one of the great dominant political and international themes of our century.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

Jews were the first to believe that history itself has meaning and that progress, not repetition, is the law of life.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

Our physical unity has gone far ahead of our moral unity.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

The raw material from which social institutions are fashioned is always more or less recalcitrant and any human society will tend to produce a caricature of itself.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

Fear can indeed be the beginning of wisdom.

~Barbara Ward, Baroness Jackson of Lodsworth

man's oldest and least reputable occupation - war.
