Dogs understand your moods and your thoughts, and if you are thinking unpleasant things about your dog, he will pick it up and be downhearted.

~Barbara Woodhouse

I have caught more ills from people sneezing over me and giving me virus infections than from kissing dogs.

~Barbara Woodhouse

The dog has an enviable mind; it remembers the nice things in life and quickly blots out the nasty.

~Barbara Woodhouse

There is no such thing as a difficult dog, only an inexperienced owner.

~Barbara Woodhouse

I do not believe that a dog can be cured by a psychiatrist, but I think some owners could be helped by one.

~Barbara Woodhouse

I can train any dog in 5 minutes. It's training the owner that takes longer.

~Barbara Woodhouse

I believe that animals have been talking to human beings ever since we were all made and put into this world.

~Barbara Woodhouse

one has to give a great deal of oneself to animals if one is to get the best out of them.

~Barbara Woodhouse

Animals are so much quicker in picking up our thoughts than we are in picking up theirs. I believe they must have a very poor opinion of the human race.

~Barbara Woodhouse

There is nothing a pig loves more than a good bath, with a loofah and plenty of soap flakes ... There is something delightfully lovable about a really clean pig, in clean yellow straw.

~Barbara Woodhouse

Dogs aren't born knowing what or what not to do; they only learn like children.

~Barbara Woodhouse

When I breathe down my nose to say how do you do to a horse, it can hear that breath at anything up to twenty yards, for horses have the most acute sense of hearing.
