The trouble with being a ghostwriter or artist is that you must remain rather anonymously without credit. If one wants the credit, one has to cease being a ghost and become a leader or innovator.

~Bob Kane

Much is written about the Batman because he is publicly exposed in print. Very little is known personally about his creator, because I haven't given out that many interviews.

~Bob Kane

It is difficult to separate, at times, the myth from the truth.

~Bob Kane

If Bill Finger created Batman, where is Bill Finger's byline on my strip? It is conspicuous by its absence.

~Bob Kane

I intend to explode the myths about myself and get down to the real truth about the legend that is Batman.

~Bob Kane

If you ever want to get the facts straight about me or the Batman, please write to the original source, myself, for the truth, instead of second guessing.

~Bob Kane

Batman has been acknowledged as a legend in my lifetime.

~Bob Kane

In the Golden Age of Batman, I penciled, inked, and lettered my strip by myself.

~Bob Kane

I was involved with the Batman. There are two sides to every story.

Now you've heard my side.

~Bob Kane

This sounds like my autobiography, but I thought this would be a good time to sound off about myself, as I think that I have been silent too long about my views and opinions.

~Bob Kane

I didn't have the time to literally write and draw the strip at the same time.

~Bob Kane

How can an article about me or the Batman be the true story when I am not consulted or interviewed?

~Bob Kane

I am planning a one-man art show of original Batman oil paintings that I will show in New York City.

~Bob Kane

The New Look of Batman is more illustrative and realistic.

~Bob Kane

I created Batman about 10 years before Ian Fleming created James Bond.

~Bob Kane

I am also a writer. That is a fact not known by the public in general.

~Bob Kane

What I read is so distorted that I cannot believe that the person they are talking about is myself.
