How do I explain Neil Young? Great question! I explain Neil Young as, I would kill to see his acoustic shows.

~Bob Mould

The blues is something separate from what I do. They connect at certain spots, but blues is different. I wouldn't put it in with what my career has been. That would be a whole separate wing.

~Bob Mould

I think also there was a lot of coming to terms with where I am in life, where I fit in as a gay man in America, and getting more comfortable with who I am.

~Bob Mould

In this world, I've got no choice: there is nothing left at all; and you don't notice, but that's all right: you don't know what it's like.

~Bob Mould

...Everything you hate is everything that you created.

~Bob Mould

How can you qualify the difference between a sin and a lie.

~Bob Mould

You can realign people's physical chemistry with sound.

~Bob Mould

Business is business. You know how that works. Because stations run on ad money. If they're playing a gay artist, then ad money dries up. So they have to be careful.

~Bob Mould

There are a lot of people, especially the younger generation who don't feel that they need to support the artists by buying their music because they grew up learning that record companies are evil.

~Bob Mould

I don't like the dislocation of being away for months at a time. It's not conducive to having a life.

~Bob Mould

I have music in my head constantly. I have to have a soundtrack in my head.

~Bob Mould

There's enough drama in my life whether I want it or not. There's enough going on right now to keep my head spinning all the time.
