

Bram Stoker Quotes

Men, Heart, Believe, Thinking, Dream, Long, Eye, Beautiful, Fall, Sweet, Light, Want, May, Blood, Mad, Kings, Pain, Children, Count Dracula, Past

Take me away from all this Death.

~Bram Stoker

I sometimes think we must be all mad and that we shall wake to sanity in strait-waistcoats.

~Bram Stoker

Once again...welcome to my house. Come freely. Go safely; and leave something of the happiness you bring.

~Bram Stoker

I want to cut off her head and take out her heart.

~Bram Stoker

No man knows till he has suffered from the night how sweet and dear to his heart and eye the morning can be.

~Bram Stoker

There are darkneses in life and there are lights, and you are one of the lights, the light of all lights.

~Bram Stoker

Despair has its own calms.

~Bram Stoker

We learn from failure, not from success!

~Bram Stoker

Souls and memories can do strange things during trance.

~Bram Stoker

Remember my friend, that knowledge is stronger than memory, and we should not trust the weaker

~Bram Stoker

There is a reason why all things are as they are.

~Bram Stoker

How blessed are some people, whose lives have no fears, no dreads; to whom sleep is a blessing that comes nightly, and brings nothing but sweet dreams.

~Bram Stoker

I am longing to be with you, and by the sea, where we can talk together freely and build our castles in the air.

~Bram Stoker

Listen to them, the children of the night. What music they make!

~Bram Stoker

Euthanasia" is an excellent and comforting word! I am grateful to whoever invented it.

~Bram Stoker

The only beautiful thing in the world whose beauty lasts for ever is a pure, fair soul.

~Bram Stoker

I have always thought that a wild animal never looks so well as when some obstacle of pronounced durability is between us. A personal experience has intensified rather than diminished that idea.

~Bram Stoker

Do you believe in destiny? That even the powers of time can be altered for a single purpose? That the luckiest man who walks on this earth is the one who finds true love?

~Bram Stoker

We learn of great things by little experiences.

~Bram Stoker

My revenge is just begun! I spread it over centuries, and time is on my side.

~Bram Stoker

The blood is the life!

~Bram Stoker

I want you to believe...to believe in things that you cannot.

~Bram Stoker

Our toil must be in silence, and our efforts all in secret; for this enlightened age, when men believe not even what they see, the doubting of wise men would be his greatest strength.

~Bram Stoker

Truly there is no such thing as finality.

~Bram Stoker

How good and thoughtful he is; the world seems full of good men--even if there are monsters in it.

~Bram Stoker

There is a method in his madness, and the rudimentary idea in my mind is growing. It will be a whole idea soon, and then, oh, unconscious cerebration.

~Bram Stoker

Before I left the castle I so fixed its entrances that never more can the Count enter there Undead.

~Bram Stoker

She has man's brain--a brain that a man should have were he much gifted--and woman's heart. The good God fashioned her for a purpose, believe me when He made that so good combination.

~Bram Stoker

Denn die Todten reiten Schnell. (For the dead travel fast.)

~Bram Stoker

Though sympathy alone can't alter facts, it can help to make them more bearable.

~Bram Stoker

Oh, why must a man like that be made unhappy when there are lots of girls about who would worship the very ground he trod on?

~Bram Stoker

No one but a woman can help a man when he is in trouble of the heart.

~Bram Stoker

Within, stood a tall old man, clean shaven save for a long white moustache, and clad in black from head to foot, without a single speck of colour about him anywhere.

~Bram Stoker

I am all in a sea of wonders. I doubt; I fear; I think strange things, which I dare not confess to my own soul. God keep me, if only for the sake of those dear to me!

~Bram Stoker

We are able to learn from a failure, but perhaps not much from a success!

~Bram Stoker

The Dead travel fast.

~Bram Stoker

A house cannot be made habitable in a day; and, after all, how few days go to make up a century.

~Bram Stoker

For now, feeling as though my own brain were unhinged or as if the shock had come which must end in its undoing, I turn to my diary for repose. The habit of entering accurately must help sooth me.

~Bram Stoker

It is wonderful what tricks our dreams play us, and how conveniently we can imagine.

~Bram Stoker

It is only when a man feels himself face to face with such horrors that he can understand their true import.

~Bram Stoker

She was young and very beautiful, but pale, like the grey pallor of death.

~Bram Stoker

I am Dracula, and I bid you welcome . . .

~Bram Stoker

Ah, it is the fault of our science that it wants to explain all; and if it explain not, then it says there is nothing to explain.

~Bram Stoker

I suppose that we women are such cowards that we think a man will save us from fears, and we marry him.

~Bram Stoker

I will not let you go into the unknown alone.

~Bram Stoker

Faith ... that faculty which enables us to believe things which we know to be untrue.

~Bram Stoker

It was like a miracle, but before our very eyes, and almost in the drawing of a breath, the whole body crumbled into dust and passed from our sight.

~Bram Stoker

There are mysteries which men can only guess at, which age by age they may solve only in part.

~Bram Stoker

But a stranger in a strange land, he is no one. Men know him not, and to know not is to care not for.

~Bram Stoker

But this night our feet must tread in thorny paths, or later, and for ever, the feet you love must walk in paths of flame!

~Bram Stoker

Enter freely and of your own free will!

~Bram Stoker

I suppose a cry does us all good at times-clears the air as other rain does.

~Bram Stoker

But we are strong, each in our purpose, and we are all more strong together.

~Bram Stoker

The Stars are a long way off, and their words get somewhat dulled in the message.

~Bram Stoker

Because if a woman's heart was free a man might have hope.

~Bram Stoker

Nature in one of her beneficent moods has ordained that even death has some antidote to its own terrors.

~Bram Stoker

You yourself never loved; you never love! Yes, I too can love; you yourselves can tell it from the past. Is it not so?

~Bram Stoker

Good women tell all their lives, and by day and by hour and by minute, such things that angels can read.

~Bram Stoker

Whether it is the old lady's fear, or the many ghostly traditions of this place, or the crucifix itself, I do not know, but I am not feeling nearly as easy in my mind as usual.

~Bram Stoker

I have been so long master that I would be master still, or at least that none other should be master of me.

~Bram Stoker

For life be, after all, only a waitin' for somethin' else than what we're doin'; and death be all that we can rightly depend on.

~Bram Stoker

There are bad dreams for those who sleep unwisely.

~Bram Stoker

Love is, after all, a selfish thing; and it throws a black shadow on anything between which and the light it stands.

~Bram Stoker

And yet, unless my senses deceive me, the old centuries had, and have, powers of their own which mere 'modernity' cannot kill.

~Bram Stoker

Chasing an errant swarm of bees is nothing to following a naked lunatic when the fit of escaping is upon him!

~Bram Stoker

The blood is life... and it shall be mine!

~Bram Stoker

We are all drifting reefwards now, and faith is our only anchor.

~Bram Stoker

Doctor, you don't know what it is to doubt everything, even yourself. No, you don't; you couldn't with eyebrows like yours.

~Bram Stoker

All men are mad in some way or the other, and inasmuch as you deal discreetly with your madmen, so deal with God's madmen too, the rest of the world.

~Bram Stoker

The fame of an actor is won in minutes and seconds, not in years.

~Bram Stoker

Loneliness will sit over our roofs with brooding wings.

~Bram Stoker

The inscrutable laws of sex have so arranged that even a timid woman is not afraid of a fierce and haughty man.

~Bram Stoker

It is ever thus that the things which we do wrong - although they may seem little at the time, and though from the hardness of our hearts we pass them lightly by - come back to us with bitterness.

~Bram Stoker

There was one great tomb more lordly than all the rest; huge it was, and nobly proportioned. On it was but one word, DRACULA.

~Bram Stoker

He means to succeed, and a man who has centuries before him can afford to wait and to go slow.

~Bram Stoker

Sleep has no place it can call its own.

~Bram Stoker

Yes, there is some one I love, though he has not told me yet that he even loves me.

~Bram Stoker

I could not resist the temptation of mystifying him a bit, I suppose it is some taste of the original apple that remains still in our mouths.

~Bram Stoker

And then away for home! Away to the quickest and nearest train! Away from this cursed land, where the devil and his children stil walk with earthly feet!

~Bram Stoker

Even if she be not harmed, her heart may fail her in so much and so many horrors; and hereafter she may suffer--both in waking, from her nerves, and in sleep, from her dreams.

~Bram Stoker

This man belongs to me, I want him!

~Bram Stoker

Ah, we men and women are like ropes drawn tight with strain that pull us in different directions.

~Bram Stoker

But hush! No telling to others that make so inquisitive questions. We must obey, and silence is a part of obedience, and obedience is to bring you strong and well into loving arms that wait for you.

~Bram Stoker

No man knows till he experiences it, what it is like to feel his own life-blood drawn away into the woman he loves.

~Bram Stoker

I have a sort of empty feeling; nothing in the world seems of sufficient importance to be worth the doing.

~Bram Stoker

He may not enter anywhere at the first, unless there be some one of the household who bid him to come, though afterwards he can come as he please.

~Bram Stoker

I do not, as you know, take sufficient interest in dress to be able to describe the new fashions. Dress is a bore.

~Bram Stoker

I'm a hard nut to crack, and I take it standing up.

~Bram Stoker

A brave man's hand can speak for itself, it does not even need a woman's love to hear its music.

~Bram Stoker

She is one of God's women fashioned by His own hand to show us men and other women that there is a heaven where we can enter, and that its light can be here on earth.

~Bram Stoker

As yet we know nothing of what goes to create or evoke the active spark of life.

~Bram Stoker

Safety and the assurance of safety are things of the past.

~Bram Stoker

Related Links:

- Men Quotes
- Heart Quotes
- Believe Quotes
- Thinking Quotes
- Dream Quotes
- Long Quotes
- Eye Quotes
- Beautiful Quotes
- Fall Quotes
- Sweet Quotes
- Light Quotes
- Want Quotes
- May Quotes
- Blood Quotes
- Mad Quotes
- Kings Quotes
- Pain Quotes
- Children Quotes
- Count Dracula Quotes
- Past Quotes