Restoring responsibility and accountability is essential to the economic and fiscal health of our nation.

~Carl Levin

While it is clear that we need to make some adjustments to protect Social Security for the long term, it is disingenuous to say that the trust fund is facing a crisis

~Carl Levin

We have a hope of succeeding if we learn from our past mistakes and pull together to make the hard choices.

~Carl Levin

The intelligence failures with respect to Iraq were massive and have damaged our credibility around the world

~Carl Levin

The Constitution is a document that should only be amended with great caution.

~Carl Levin

Sadly, the President's budget proposal for the upcoming year once again puts cutting taxes for the wealthiest Americans over addressing our country's severe fiscal problems.

~Carl Levin

Even top caliber hospitals cannot escape medical mistakes that sometimes result in irreparable damage to patients

~Carl Levin

When a decision is made to go to war based on intelligence, it is a fateful decision. It has ramifications and impacts way beyond the current months and years

~Carl Levin

If we have a chance of succeeding and bringing stability and democracy to Iraq, it will mean learning from our mistakes, not denying them and not ignoring them.

~Carl Levin

The liberation of Iraq is a crucial advance in the campaign against terror

~Carl Levin

The terrorist attacks of September 11th and the courageous actions of our armed forces in Afghanistan and Iraq remind us that friends of tyranny and enemies of freedom still exist

~Carl Levin

The American people deserve a budget that invests in the future, protects the most vulnerable among us and helps to create jobs and economic security

~Carl Levin

If our intelligence is either manipulated or if it's shaded or if in some way it is exaggerated, it is very, very dangerous for us, particularly as we go down the road and look at other threats.

~Carl Levin

It's unclear how air strikes on our part can succeed unless the Iraqi army is willing to fight, and that's uncertain given the fact that several Iraqi army divisions have melted away.
