A soldier of the Legion lay dying in Algiers, There was a lack of woman's nursing, there was dearth of woman's tears; But a comrade stood beside him, while his lifeblood ebbed away.

~Caroline Norton

Of all the joys that lighten suffering earth, what joy is welcomed like a new born child?

~Caroline Norton

We have been friends together In sunshine and in shade.

~Caroline Norton

A woman's suffering is never above half known, for the fact of the publicity of her wrongs is counted to her for disgrace.

~Caroline Norton

I do not ask for my rights. I have no rights. I have only wrongs.

~Caroline Norton

Perhaps there will come a time when...an unmarried mother will not be despised because of her motherhood...and when the right of the unborn to be born will not be denied or interfered with.

~Caroline Norton

A child's eyes, those clear wells of undefiled thought—what on earth can be more beautiful? Full of hope, love and curiosity, they meet your own.

~Caroline Norton

Until I truly loved, I was alone.

~Caroline Norton

Child murderers practice their profession without let or hindrance, and open infant butcheries unquestioned...Is there no remedy for all this ante-natal child murder?

~Caroline Norton

For death and life, in ceaseless strife, Beat wild on this world's shore,
And all our calm is in that balmâ€™ Not lost but gone before.

~Caroline Norton

Every poet hopes that after-times Shall set some value on his votive lay.

~Caroline Norton

O Twilight! Spirit that dost render birth To dim enchantments; melting heaven with earth, Leaving on craggy hills and running streams A softness like the atmosphere of dreams.

~Caroline Norton

Old Time, who changes all below, To wean men gently for the grave.

~Caroline Norton

God made all pleasures innocent.

~Caroline Norton

Oh, there at last, life's trials past, / We'll meet our loved ones more, /
Whose feet have trod the path to God, -- / Not lost, but gone before.

~Caroline Norton

They serve God well, who serve his creatures.

~Caroline Norton

I am listening for the voices Which I heard in days of old.
