People aren't evil and people aren't good. They live how they can one day at a time. They come out of dust they go back to dust, dusty feet, no wings, and whose fault is that?

~Caryl Churchill

What's poetry? It's not real but maybe it's more than real. It's dreaming while you're awake.

~Caryl Churchill

You make beauty and it disappears, I love that.

~Caryl Churchill

You're pretending this isn't your life. You think it's going to happen some other time. When you're dead you'll realise you were alive now.

~Caryl Churchill

England that little gray island in the clouds where governments don't fall overnight and children don't sell themselves in the street and my money is safe.

~Caryl Churchill

You can't win every week.

~Caryl Churchill

Painting doesn't mean just describing; it's a state of spirit.

~Caryl Churchill

I'd go without food if I could have a flower.

~Caryl Churchill

How could I go on my travels without that sweet soul waiting at home for my letters?

~Caryl Churchill

Parties are a cruel kind of fun.

~Caryl Churchill

Paper is like Joyce Carol Oates: white.
