A man is lucky if he is the first love of a woman. A woman is lucky if she is the last love of a man.

~Charles Dickens

The most important thing in life is to stop saying 'I wish' and start saying 'I will.' Consider nothing impossible, then treat possibilities as probabilities.

~Charles Dickens

Have a heart that never hardens, and a temper that never tires, and a touch that never hurts.

~Charles Dickens

No one is useless in this world who lightens the burden of it to anyone else.

~Charles Dickens

I have been bent and broken, but - I hope - into a better shape.

~Charles Dickens

Do all the good you can and make as little fuss about it as possible.

~Charles Dickens

A very little key will open a very heavy door.

~Charles Dickens

The whole difference between construction and creation is exactly this: that a thing constructed can only be loved after it is constructed; but a thing created is loved before it exists.

~Charles Dickens

Reflect upon your present blessings of which every man has many - not on your past misfortunes, of which all men have some.

~Charles Dickens

Electric communication will never be a substitute for the face of someone who with their soul encourages another person to be brave and true.

~Charles Dickens

We forge the chains we wear in life.

~Charles Dickens

If there were no bad people, there would be no good lawyers.

~Charles Dickens

Life is made of ever so many partings welded together.

~Charles Dickens

Happiness is a gift and the trick is not to expect it, but to delight in it when it comes.

~Charles Dickens

What greater gift than the love of a cat.

~Charles Dickens

Charity begins at home, and justice begins next door.

~Charles Dickens

Every failure teaches a man something, if he will learn; and you are too sensible a man not to learn from this failure.

~Charles Dickens

I hope that real love and truth are stronger in the end than any evil or misfortune in the world.

~Charles Dickens

Reflect upon your present blessings

~Charles Dickens

There are only two styles of portrait painting; the serious and the smirk.

~Charles Dickens

I will honor Christmas in my heart, and try to keep it all the year.

~Charles Dickens

On the motionless branches of some trees, autumn berries hung like clusters of coral beads, as in those fabled orchards where the fruits were jewels . . .

~Charles Dickens

For it is good to be children sometimes, and never better than at Christmas, when its mighty Founder was a child Himself.

~Charles Dickens

We need never be ashamed of our tears.

~Charles Dickens

Although a skillful flatterer is a most delightful companion if you have him all to yourself, his taste becomes very doubtful when he takes to complimenting other people.

~Charles Dickens

Never close your lips to those whom you have already opened your heart.

~Charles Dickens

There are dark shadows on the earth, but its lights are stronger in the contrast.

~Charles Dickens

Suffering has been stronger than all other teaching, and has taught me to understand what your heart used to be. I have been bent and broken, but - I hope - into a better shape.

~Charles Dickens

I know enough of the world now to have almost lost the capacity of being much surprised by anything

~Charles Dickens

Every traveler has a home of his own, and he learns to appreciate it the more from his wandering.

~Charles Dickens

To conceal anything from those to whom I am attached, is not in my nature. I can never close my lips where I have opened my heart.

~Charles Dickens

Papa, potatoes, poultry, prunes and prism, are all very good words for the lips.

~Charles Dickens

It was one of those March days when the sun shines hot and the wind blows cold: when it is summer in the light, and winter in the shade.

~Charles Dickens

The world belongs to those who set out to conquer it armed with self confidence and good humour.

~Charles Dickens

New thoughts and hopes were whirling through my mind, and all the colours of my life were changing.

~Charles Dickens

I am what you designed me to be. I am your blade. You cannot now complain if you also feel the hurt

~Charles Dickens

A day wasted on others is not wasted on one's self.

~Charles Dickens

Take nothing on its looks; take everything on evidence. There's no better rule.

~Charles Dickens

Fan the sinking flame of hilarity with the wing of friendship; and pass the rosy wine.

~Charles Dickens

That glorious vision of doing good is so often the sanguine mirage of so many good minds.

~Charles Dickens

I never could have done what I have done without the habits of punctuality, order, and diligence, without the determination to concentrate myself on one subject at a time.

~Charles Dickens

There is nothing truer than physiognomy, taken in connection with manner.

~Charles Dickens

Whether I shall turn out to be the hero of my own life, or whether that station will be held by anybody else, these pages must show.

~Charles Dickens

The sun himself is weak when he first rises, and gathers strength and courage as the day gets on.

~Charles Dickens

Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure nineteen six, result happiness. Annual income twenty pounds, annual expenditure twenty pound ought and six, result misery.

~Charles Dickens

Quadruped lions are said to be savage, only when they are hungry; biped lions are rarely sulky longer than when their appetite for distinction remains unappeased.

~Charles Dickens

Most men are individuals no longer so far as their business, its activities, or its moralities are concerned. They are not units but fractions.

~Charles Dickens

For the rest of his life, Oliver Twist remembers a single word of blessing spoken to him by another child because this word stood out so strikingly from the consistent discouragement around him.

~Charles Dickens

Yes. He is quite a good fellow - nobody's enemy but his own.

~Charles Dickens

the sight of me is good for sore eyes

~Charles Dickens

My advice is to never do tomorrow what you can do today.
Procrastination is the thief of time.

~Charles Dickens

One should never be ashamed to cry. Tears are rain on the dust of earth.

~Charles Dickens

Spring is the time of year when it is summer in the sun and winter in the shade.

~Charles Dickens
