I like taking things apart and putting them back together. Tinkering. I'd be a professional tinkerer. Tinkerbell. I think that's what they're called.

~Chris Carmack

In terms of hardline right-wing people on television, there's some people that make me cringe when I change the channel.

~Chris Carmack

Success has a lot of different plateaus. But I first felt really proud of myself when I was doing an off-Broadway production in New York City.

~Chris Carmack

I don't want to go to the future. I'm scared of the future!

~Chris Carmack

I think I was a pretty energetic kid. Well, I was energetic until about my mid-20s when I discovered alcohol. That's not entirely true, but you get older and the edge comes off.

~Chris Carmack

I have a couple of nice guitars that I use, but I don't have anything that I collect. I collect a lot of dust in my apartment, if that counts for anything.

~Chris Carmack

I really do love the theater and as you get deeper into your career, it gets harder to carve out the time to do theater.

~Chris Carmack

Being an assistant in a computer lab was the worst job I ever had. It was boring. That was when I was in college.

~Chris Carmack

Music kept me sane between acting jobs.

~Chris Carmack

I've been writing songs on little pieces of paper since I was a little kid, and it's just always been something I've done.

~Chris Carmack

A career like mine as an actor has a lot of ups and downs. Sometimes you wonder if you're not wasting your time trying to carve out a space for yourself in this crazy entertainment industry.
