Although awareness of cancer's prevalence in the United States improves and medical advances in the field abound, pancreatic cancer has largely been absent from the list of major success stories.

~Chris Van Hollen

Why would you hand the keys to the car back to the same guys whose policies drove the economy into the ditch and then walked away from the scene of the accident?

~Chris Van Hollen

The fact of the matter is it's very reasonable to ask the wealthiest estates to pay their share. We did that since Teddy Roosevelt, a Republican president.

~Chris Van Hollen

One of the greatest obstacles to escaping poverty is the staggering cost of higher education.

~Chris Van Hollen

America stands as a beacon of hope and the possibility of a better life - but it is also a nation where nearly 1 in 4 children live in poverty.

~Chris Van Hollen

I get along very well with Paul Ryan personally. We have very deep differences on policy issues. But we express them civilly.

~Chris Van Hollen

It is widely known that the effects of childhood poverty follow children through adolescence and into adulthood.
