Life gives us choices. You either grab on with both hands and just go for it, or you sit on the sidelines.

~Christine Feehan

She was temptation wrapped in casual elegance.

~Christine Feehan

The trouble is not really in being alone, it's being lonely. One can be lonely in the midst of a crowd, don't you think?

~Christine Feehan

And maybe that was love. Being so vulnerable and allowing someone else in so far they could hurt you, but they also give you everything.

~Christine Feehan

We never can just stop time. Or take moments back. Life doesn't work that way, does it?

~Christine Feehan

I made the decision fifteen years ago that you were my life. My everything. You were with me in my dreams my dark lover my friend and confidant.

~Christine Feehan

She didn't know how to love, to give herself to someone, to out herself in someone else's keeping and take him into hers. She didn't trust anyone with her heart - or the darker places of her soul.

~Christine Feehan

It's all well and good to look back after the fact and see what we should have done, but we rarely know what path is best when we take that first step.

~Christine Feehan

Betrayal is never easy to handle and there is no right way to accept it.

~Christine Feehan

If what he said was the truth, it broke her heart. If what he said was a lie, it was broken anyway.

~Christine Feehan

You can't be anything but who you are. I wouldn't love you the same if you stopped being you. How do I change enough to accept that ruthless streak in you.

~Christine Feehan

Do you have any idea how stubborn you can look ? Our children better never give me that look, although I won't mind if they give it to you. You'd deserve it.

~Christine Feehan
