I'm rather old-fashioned about this video business. It's all relatively new. We really don't do videos, Fleetwood Mac. We've only done two.

~Christine McVie

I'm looking more like my dogs every day - it must be the shaggy fringe and the ears.

~Christine McVie

You can only mend the vase so many times before you have to chuck it away.

~Christine McVie

I wouldn't think a blues album would be that commercially successful, but I don't really care. I'd do it for the love of blues, not for the money. I've got plenty of money.

~Christine McVie

I find it hard to get excited by just a sound. I have to have a song there, then I'll find what used I can make of that sound within the song.

~Christine McVie

Learn your instrument. Be honest. Don't do anything phony. There is so much crap floating around. There is plenty of room for a bit of honest writing.

~Christine McVie

I enjoy my money, and I'm not ashamed to admit it. I'd certainly rather be rich than poor.

~Christine McVie

My songs are self-explanatory... somebody pointed out to me that... my songs pretty much speak for themselves.

~Christine McVie

There were a lot of bad feelings when Lindsey first left the band. But there's been a lot of healing going on, growing up, maturing. The bond is a great deal stronger than what we first thought.

~Christine McVie

I haven't turned into some rich monster. I've kept my perspective. But I am a bit spoiled. It's hard not to be a little spoiled by having a lot of money.

~Christine McVie

I do ride a bicycle occasionally, but not those stupid stationary ones you see in gyms. I do have one of those, I must confess, but its quite literally a pain in the arse, so I dont use it.

~Christine McVie

Some of the best songs I've written, I've written in 10 minutes.

~Christine McVie

I wasn't raised with money, so I had to get used to having it. I think I've adjusted to it pretty well.

~Christine McVie

I still like to play the blues more than anything else.

~Christine McVie

I was actually qualified to be an art teacher, but I didn't want to teach.
