I'm a really big homebody. If I had my way, a typical Saturday night would be staying home, ordering in, watching a movie or catching up on some shows.

~Christine Taylor

The perfect Sunday morning is the family at home, staying in pajamas for half the day and eating a late breakfast.

~Christine Taylor

My family's always been really funny. I feel like comedy's hard. I feel like it's so important.

~Christine Taylor

Cheese, in any form, is my guilty pleasure. I would rather have a cheese platter for dinner than any meal. There's nothing better!

~Christine Taylor

I'm an impulse buyer. There are so many great things online! Having two kids, I feel like that's an easy, fun way to shop without letting it take up your entire day.

~Christine Taylor

I find vacuuming very therapeutic. I like the lines it makes on the carpet.

~Christine Taylor

Someday I'd love to do Shakespeare.

~Christine Taylor

We have a new puppy and that's enough! Two babies and three dogs is enough.

~Christine Taylor

It's always just a great thing to see your kids connecting and you see the different stages.

~Christine Taylor

It was so inspiring for me to watch tennis growing up. I thought I was really good playing, until my brother told me I wasn't!

~Christine Taylor

My classroom is set up to accommodate the different types of assignments students do. Sitting at a single desk the entire class time just doesn't work for this type of class.

~Christine Taylor

I can't stand the club scene. It's all about impressing people.

~Christine Taylor

All through school, people told me I looked like Marcia Brady.

~Christine Taylor

I just go with my gut.

~Christine Taylor

I like circle time and school drop-off. And I like that I have kids still willing to hold my hand.

~Christine Taylor

I like things bright.

~Christine Taylor

If I had made it in cheerleading, I would have never been an actress.

~Christine Taylor

I have no projects on the horizon. I don't feel frustrated. It's a great life lesson for me.
