The main thing is that you have a good editor - one that believes in you and who will give you the feedback that you need to produce a good book.

~Christopher Darden

I am a struggling writer. A middle-aged man with two little kids and I'm just trying to earn a living. So buy this book - or my kids will have to go to foster care.

~Christopher Darden

I think that the mere fact that I'm doing it ought to inspire someone. In junior high school the counselor suggested that I focus on wood shop and metal shop.

~Christopher Darden

In some ways I'm still recovering from the trial. My health is not as good as it ought to be. I've gone back to practicing law and it seems to have taken a toll for whatever reason.

~Christopher Darden

I think that as I continue to write, my writing I hope will become more controversial and more provocative.

~Christopher Darden

I just did something on a show on UPN called "Girlfriends" that will be on television in February. I am actually a much better actor today than I was in 1996, believe it or not.

~Christopher Darden

A lot of the evidence and some of the events you see in LA Justice are loosely based on real-life cases.

~Christopher Darden

The events of the day inspired me to become a lawyer.

~Christopher Darden

I began writing in the 4th grade. As a matter of fact, I produced a play for the entire school. It was about Leif Ericson and the discovery of America.

~Christopher Darden

I'm real bent on dialogue. I'm just a little bit crazy and when you put that along with 20 years as a criminal lawyer, it's pretty easy to come up with some interesting plots.

~Christopher Darden

All I can really say is it's bloodier than hell. In this one I'm going to be much more direct and honest in my description of the actual killings and the crime scene.

~Christopher Darden

I think my perspective is unique, and I want to make sure that perspective is memorialized and preserved.

~Christopher Darden

Writing is hard work, but a lot of fun, too. It allows me to live out some of my fantasies.

~Christopher Darden

The law has no compassion. And justice is administered without compassion.

~Christopher Darden

I chose to go to law school because I thought that someday, somehow I'd make a difference.

~Christopher Darden

Its much like writing a screenplay with someone else and thats how we view it, I think.

~Christopher Darden

I no longer teach law. But when I did I advised my students that they should never accept a case if it meant that by doing so you couldn't sleep at night.

~Christopher Darden

That's the thing about us lawyers - if at all possible, we will consume each other.
