In any of the arts, you never stop learning.

~Claire Bloom

I had a burning ambition. Otherwise, I wouldn't have accomplished it

~Claire Bloom

There are several paths one can take, but not every path is open to you.

~Claire Bloom

I remember seeing some little wrinkles in my early 30s and thinking they were interesting. But you know the horror of it is that the screen image has to be perfect

~Claire Bloom

I've spent my life pursuing excellence as an artist, which is what I always wanted to do anyhow.

~Claire Bloom

I don't think actresses' lives in general are very good

~Claire Bloom

In my book, I was trying to get into my own soul.

~Claire Bloom

You can't pretend to be a Sharon Stone or a Marilyn Monroe. You really can't fake that.

~Claire Bloom

My face has always been my fortune anyway, not my body.

~Claire Bloom

Even the most stoic of men will be childlike at least once in a day.

~Claire Bloom

I have no intention of discussing my private life with anyone

~Claire Bloom

In my day, people didn't do nude scenes. I mean they didn't exist.

~Claire Bloom

Security has no place in the life of an actress.

~Claire Bloom

I started on a very high note and I was always able to choose. I want to be able to do that until my last breath. And to do that, you have to have money.

~Claire Bloom

I learned from watching and I learned from doing

~Claire Bloom

Film is different for me now. If the money is good and it's not totally revolting, I'll do it

~Claire Bloom

I am interested in the art. I'm a professional woman
