The roots of Cuban music are in my head.

~Compay Segundo

Ry Cooder for me is a master, a great master that has a wonderful feel for Cuban music. He's also paid tribute my talent a bit, even though I don't know half of what he knows.

~Compay Segundo

My secret? A desire to work, years of dedication and loving what you do; I can't live without music.

~Compay Segundo

Can you imagine that Cuba and Europe's youth, who had forgotten about traditional music, who only thought of rock music, are now looking back towards their grandparents? That is a phenomenon.

~Compay Segundo

Towns are suffering from all these things, we should unite until we are all satisfied, man cannot be killing each other as if we were animals, as if we had no culture; that is a lack of culture.

~Compay Segundo

As far as pleasures, you've got to have limits. You shouldn't have too much of good things, so you'll always have a desire for more and you won't get bored.

~Compay Segundo

When it comes to musicians, I'm like the daddy of musicians here in Cuba.

~Compay Segundo

I've done a lot of things away from my homeland.

~Compay Segundo

Cubans are frantic when it comes to appreciating music.

~Compay Segundo

I'll only stop singing when I'm in my grave.

~Compay Segundo

As long as your heart beats, one is never too old.

~Compay Segundo

I don't sit in the corner waiting for death: death has to pursue me. I'm going strong. I hope to reach 100 and ask for an extension, just like my grandmother did.

~Compay Segundo

I'm still strong and in the best shape to continue living my life.

~Compay Segundo

Everyone should have a philosophy for living better.

~Compay Segundo

The music that I play and that I like is traditional music, maybe it's because of my age.

~Compay Segundo

In order to grow old, you have to experience everything, but in moderation.

~Compay Segundo

I am still simple, just as if I were beginning.

~Compay Segundo

I am a scholar of life. Every night before I go to sleep, I analyze every detail of what I did that day. I evaluate things and people, which helps me avoid mistakes.
