Broken, Should, Sleep, Silly, Men, Knowing, Want, Sometimes, Believe, Block*

There really is no time for wallowing in the miseries of life: we don't have all the time in the world, we have all the world, and not enough time.

~Craig Stone

Lies are ants, the truth is the sun, and questions are a magnifying glass waiting to be picked up by the curious.

~Craig Stone

At the end of the world the sunset is like a child smashing a pack of crayons into God's face.

~Craig Stone

They say beauty is in the eye of the beholder, but us sheep know, true beauty is not in the eye: it lives in the mind.

~Craig Stone

All the best bits of a film happen when I'm looking down at my phone. Life, is similar.

~Craig Stone

Anything you want to do is possible; fear is not meant to prevent but to motivate your heart into the life you naturally think is improbable.

~Craig Stone

Humans are born free then put into cages, then convinced freedom is what being in a cage is, and what freedom is, is being in a cage.

~Craig Stone

Love is a pig dressed as a clown sitting in a bath full of beans: pretty much amazing, once you get over the shock.

~Craig Stone

Love is born from disagreeing over something we believe in. Hate is born from disagreeing over something we fear.

~Craig Stone

My eyes open after my mind. All eyes always do.

~Craig Stone

The word begone is a Russian doll. A small, single word, which contains so many others; and when all the smaller words inside line up, they look like a bridge: Be Beg Ego Go On One.

~Craig Stone

Nobody has to do anything wrong to end up living a life that feels like it's not their own, all they have to do is take a step back, and hope for the best.

~Craig Stone

Better to live dreaming, than dream of living.

~Craig Stone

There is nothing more deceptive, more grandeur, than the delusion of a single man.

~Craig Stone

I wonder if I'm being paranoid. I tell myself I'm not, and then ask myself how I can be so sure? I don't know the answer, so I go back to wondering if I am.

~Craig Stone

Love is a grin, a look in the eye whispering what are we doing, appearing in silly arguments had for the sake of them.

~Craig Stone

Sometimes you need to sit in the wrong place to see the right view.

~Craig Stone

When someone falls asleep on your chest, but the one really falling is you.

~Craig Stone

If humans had nothing to fight for, they would fight for nothing.

~Craig Stone

Give a man a fish and he'll eat for a day, teach a man to fish and he'll evolve to become so skilled at fishing he destroys the ocean and kills every last fish.

~Craig Stone

People that talk about living in the real world don't even enjoy living in the real world.

~Craig Stone

The question should be who do we want to be when we grow up, not what.

~Craig Stone

A person dies every second, but there's also a six year old somewhere, every second, trying to move an apple with his mind.

~Craig Stone

I want to avoid people, because there's only one thing worse than being homeless, and that's people who are not, knowing that you are.

~Craig Stone

Smile sometimes: it won't add years to your life, but it will add life to your years.

~Craig Stone

Some days I am the flower beneath the machine. And the machine rolls slowly on, blocking the sun, without a care for what it tramples beneath.

~Craig Stone

We dream of the world we could have made, and wake up in the world that we did.

~Craig Stone

When we're young nothing offends us, except adults telling us what should. Then when we become adults, nothing offends us, except we are offended on behalf of our young.

~Craig Stone

Sleep doesn't come easy when a broken twig conjures images of a hulking mental patient snapping the arms off children, over by the bin.

~Craig Stone

We only borrow the breaths we take in life. Every breath we borrow we give back, including our last. In the end, no matter how we lived, we all die feeling owed.

~Craig Stone

The sharpest tools in the box are not always the best tools for the job.

~Craig Stone

Only the dying take pleasure in the details of what the healthy fail to notice.

~Craig Stone

Our problems come not from what we believe, but from how we believe in what we do.
