You have so many layers, that you can peel away a few, and everyone's so shocked or impressed that you're baring your soul, while to you it's nothing, because you know you've twenty more layers to go.

~Craig Thompson

Maybe I'm sad about wanting you. I'm not too comfortable with wanting someone.

~Craig Thompson

Shame is always easier to handle if you have someone to share it with.

~Craig Thompson

For what matters if I gain the whole world, but lose my soul?

~Craig Thompson

Pressed against her I can hear eternity -- hollow, lonely spaces and currents that churn ceaselessly, and the fallen snow welcomes the falling snow with a whispered "Hush".

~Craig Thompson

and yet I feel that the most real home I'll ever have is the space where our roads merged and traveled along together... for a time.

~Craig Thompson

Even a mistake is better than nothing.

~Craig Thompson

How satisfying it is to leave a mark on a blank surface. To make a map of my movement - no matter how temporary.

~Craig Thompson

On my first visit to the public library, I was like a kid at a candy store where all the candy was free. I gorged myself until my tummy ached.

~Craig Thompson

Something about being rejected at Church Camp felt so much more awful than being rejected at school.

~Craig Thompson

At night, lying on your back and staring at the falling snow, it's easy to imagine oneself soaring through the stars.

~Craig Thompson

I wanted a heaven. And I grew up striving for that world-- an eternal world- that would wash away my temporary misery.

~Craig Thompson

You're more than a story.

~Craig Thompson

I love the sea because it is boundless.

~Craig Thompson

Which is scarier-- lust or temptation?

~Craig Thompson

I was grateful for cereal --- the only food that my tummy, riddled by pangs of infatuation, could handle.

~Craig Thompson

Her lips tarried at mine. Baiting each other with the warmth of our breath, barely grazing, detouring, then connecting.
