For a Hero cannot triumph all the time. Sometimes he will be defeated, and how he faces that defeat is a test of his character.

~Cressida Cowell

There's no such thing as im-POSSIBLE, Hiccup, only im-PROBABLE. The only thing that limits us are the limits to our imagination

~Cressida Cowell

Remember, there is nothing wrong with a healthy sense of self-respect.

~Cressida Cowell

But then I have always been somewhat of a square peg in a round hole.

~Cressida Cowell

The past is another land, and we cannot go to visit. So, if I say there were dragons, and men who rode upon their backs, who alive has been there and can tell me that I'm wrong?

~Cressida Cowell

"That is a terrible plan." "Hiccup's plans are always t-terrible." "Hey! You're still here, aren't you?"

~Cressida Cowell

"Oh, for Thor's sake..." said Hiccup. "I thought that was just a story..." "Stories come from somewhere," said the witch. "The past haunts the present in more ways than we realise.

~Cressida Cowell

We're all snatching precious moments from the peaceful jaws of time.

~Cressida Cowell

A Chief must show no fear, no worry... A Chief is a leader first, and a man second.

~Cressida Cowell

I was not a natural. . . . This is the story of becoming . . . the Hard Way.

~Cressida Cowell

Hiccup: Thank You For Nothing You Stupid Reptile.

~Cressida Cowell

Twelve days north of Hopeless and a few degrees south of Freezing to Death

~Cressida Cowell

Wartihog put up his hand. "What happens if we can't read, sir?" "No boasting, Wartihog!" boomed Gobber. "Get some idiot to read it for you.

~Cressida Cowell

The Hero cares not for a wild winter's storm. For it carries him swift on the back of the storm. All may be lost and our hearts may be worn, but a Hero fights forever.

~Cressida Cowell

Books were despised by the Viking Tribes, as they were seen as a horrible civilizing influence and a threat to the barbarian culture.

~Cressida Cowell

There were dragons when I was a boy.

~Cressida Cowell

Always sailing, sailing, sailing...never quite reaching.

~Cressida Cowell

I wanted to be a King who would found a New World, not in some misty country far across the seas, but right here, right now, at home.

~Cressida Cowell

Most of us are lucky not to be Kings and Heroes, because we do not have to make the choices that Kings and Heroes have to make.

~Cressida Cowell

The past haunts the present in more ways than we think. It certainly scares the living daylights out of ME"~ Old Wrinkly

~Cressida Cowell

But how can we know that dragons did not exist? We have never actually BEEN to the Dark Ages.
