Better a broken heart than a hardened one.

~Dalia Mogahed

Everything I have experienced in my life helps form who I am today, and I would not change or forget any of it.

~Dalia Mogahed

How women view religion's role in society is shaped more by their own country's culture and context than one monolithic view that religion is simply bad for women.

~Dalia Mogahed

While economic development [in Egypt] made a few people rich, it left many more worse off. As people felt less and less free, they also felt less and less provided for.

~Dalia Mogahed

They're still out there talking about gun control measures, as if somehow terrorists care about what our gun laws are.

~Dalia Mogahed

If no one can do that, yeah, Donald Trump better man the lifeboats, because there's some significant chance he'll win the nomination.

~Dalia Mogahed

Human development, not secularization, is what's key to women's empowerment in the transforming Middle East.

~Dalia Mogahed

I'm hearing here that this Muslim movement, well, for women, is what we have to focus on. And women have been doing, I think, the right thing. Having the conversations, talking to people about that.

~Dalia Mogahed

I think the blood is spilling in Syria and it's mostly Muslims.

~Dalia Mogahed

I'm not in the business of changing policies. I hope to inform, not form, decisions.

~Dalia Mogahed

As Donald Trump continues to dominate the 2016 field, the Republican establishment's low-grade anxiety is becoming an all-out panic

~Dalia Mogahed

People are so complex and multidimensional that raising someone to 'hero' status is too great a simplification.

~Dalia Mogahed

Like one of any minority, I have experienced prejudice.

~Dalia Mogahed

We have to be concerned about the gun killing that people who are Americans, who are Irish, and who are English, who are all around the country.

~Dalia Mogahed

I think the guy who gets the least chatter, given how high his chances are of winning the nomination, is Ted Cruz.

~Dalia Mogahed

I have to say that I saw terrorists in 2002, went to Islamabad, Pakistan, and met women who were supporting this ideology. I call them the Taliban Ladies Auxiliary back then.

~Dalia Mogahed

Some people think [Ted] Cruz is just as bad of an electoral nightmare down the ballot as [Donald] Trump.

~Dalia Mogahed

We don't want to bury our heads in the sand about serious issues.

~Dalia Mogahed

I hate this idea that we, as Americans, are going to say we're going to have a sense at the border, someplace else, that - to figure out whether or not Muslims can come to the United States.

~Dalia Mogahed

I had actually, after the Paris attacks in this country, we all patted ourselves on the back and said, "Well, we have a much more assimilated Muslim population here than they do in Europe."

~Dalia Mogahed

There are many other [then ISIS] terrorist organizations. And their primary victims are Muslims. I think that's very important.

~Dalia Mogahed

If you want to beat Donald Trump - then you need to be the candidate that is not the establishment in your thinking, in the way you're presenting yourself.

~Dalia Mogahed

What have we heard from Republican voters? They want somebody that's new, they want somebody that's fresh. They don't want an establishment.

~Dalia Mogahed

ISIS simply do not have ideological, theological, or popular support. And this is a criminal organization that is funding their criminality with things like drug trade and selling oil.

~Dalia Mogahed

Muslims have a right to every other people, like everybody, to come to the United States.

~Dalia Mogahed

I think it's important to understand that ISIS's biggest enemy are ordinary Muslims. That's why they're fleeing.

~Dalia Mogahed

I just want to point out that Warren Harding, The Times assailed his nomination for president. And we can see how effective that was.

~Dalia Mogahed

I am very grateful for the opportunities I have been afforded.

~Dalia Mogahed

I admire many people, but I am not sure that I have any 'heroes.'
