If you really hate George Bush, you don't want to read about his hobbies or that he's nice to his friends or that he's good company at dinner.

~Daniel Okrent

It's a very complicated issue about when is a fact not a fact in the context of opinions.

~Daniel Okrent

I'm afraid we'll see reporters stop chasing quotes around the same time dogs stop chasing cars.

~Daniel Okrent

I know there are reporters who ridicule pundits.

~Daniel Okrent

Is the New York Times a Liberal Newspaper? Of course it is.

~Daniel Okrent

I believe the Times is a great newspaper, but a profoundly fallible one.

~Daniel Okrent

The pursuit of balance can create imbalance because sometimes something is true.

~Daniel Okrent

Closing one's ears to the complaints of partisans would also entail closing one's mind to the substance of their arguments.

~Daniel Okrent

But I think it's undeniable that the Times is a liberal paper.

~Daniel Okrent

Baseball is a pretty sight and a nice experience, win or lose, particularly if it is watched in a nice park.

~Daniel Okrent

I'm saying that the WMD reporting was not consciously evil. It was bad journalism, even very bad journalism.

~Daniel Okrent

Now I worry. If people ended up liking me, did I do the job wrong? So I decided they didn't end up liking me - they ended up being able to deal with me.
