I sometimes use music as way of getting back to a certain time, dredging up stuff from the past and putting it down on canvas.

~Danny Fox

Some of my work is very instinctive, some of my favourite things I've ever done are just two minute sketches, nothing is better when you get it like that so quick, then other work takes months.

~Danny Fox

I don't really need to be inspired by literature though. At the end of the day it's colour and imagery moved around until it works.

~Danny Fox

Women really like the horses, more so than men.

~Danny Fox

Sometimes I just want to sit and write at a clean table and not get paint all over my hands.

~Danny Fox

Painting can be like poetry but as somebody who creates both I feel the necessity for both so they cant be that similar. Sometimes I think it's as basic as not wanting to get dirty.

~Danny Fox

The spirit of a painting is very hard to explain and articulate. I can't say it's not intentional because that is the mark I'm trying to hit, however I don't feel I have much control over it.

~Danny Fox

I used to use a lot of words in the paintings but stopped because it created a narrative - or an answer to a question.

~Danny Fox

If you can see a world within a portrait I would be happy with that. I don't want to tell the story with a painting, though. I'm trying to get away from the story- from the beginning and the ending.

~Danny Fox

I have no way of knowing what you are going to feel when you look at one of my paintings; I only know what I feel.

~Danny Fox

I like to listen to a lot of classical music when I'm painting, the most simplistic stuff I can find. I like simple piano.

~Danny Fox

Other people's songs can inspire me, though - I always have music on when I'm painting.

~Danny Fox

Painting is a solitary act for me; I don't need anyone around to make paintings.
