Stereotypes happen. I try not to embrace them or avoid them.

~Danny Pudi

I'm a non-confrontational person. If I order salmon and I get chicken, I'm going to eat the chicken.

~Danny Pudi

I'm not gonna be able to grow a beard. I've realized my limitations as a human.

~Danny Pudi

Yoga helps me be a stronger runner. I can lose track of my form, and yoga reminds me how important it is.

~Danny Pudi

I ran track in high school. I was a fragile young man, personally and physically. I tried football. That didn't work out; I broke my collarbone. But I always loved running.

~Danny Pudi

My job is to focus on bringing characters to life in an honest and personal way.

~Danny Pudi

I've always been very aware of my own humanity. The limits of my humanity.

~Danny Pudi

When you have Ken Jeong naked next to you when you're doing a scene, it's pretty easy to stay loose.

~Danny Pudi

Thankfully, I was able to go to Marquette University and get my education, a Catholic education, so I could please my family, because I think they wanted me to be a priest.

~Danny Pudi

My mom put me in dance classes when I was 5 years old.

~Danny Pudi

When I run in the morning, my body spends the first 20 minutes trying to figure out what's happening to it.

~Danny Pudi

When I run barefoot, I put my shoes on my hands. Running around with shoe-hands looks a little weird.

~Danny Pudi

I'm a huge, huge sports fan, and Marquette basketball is my No. 1 thing.
