The Founders never intended to separate Christianity from government, only to keep a single denomination from running the nation.

~David Barton

We do have a Godly heritage in America, but we have been robbed - robbed by the 3 percent.

~David Barton

The Founders intended only to prevent the establishment of a single national denomination, not to restrain public religious expressions.

~David Barton

That wall is a one directional wall. It keeps the government from running the church but it makes sure that Christian principles will always stay in government.

~David Barton

You don't have a right to vote, you've got a duty of vote.

~David Barton

The current version of... separation of church and state says you can be salt, and you can be light, but only inside the four walls of the church.

~David Barton

The Founders believed that pluralism survived only within the concept of religious liberty espoused by American Christianity.

~David Barton

There should be absolutely no 'Separation of Church and State' in America.

~David Barton

That's exactly what made America so different, we don't have that colonial aspect of let's go conquer somebody else and make our nation bigger and that's because of the faith element.

~David Barton

In the case Stone v. Graham, the Supreme Court ruled that - under 'separation of church and state' - it was unconstitutional for a student in school to even see a copy of the Ten Commandments.

~David Barton

Separation of church and state is the big club pulled out to beat back the Christians .

~David Barton

In 1962 (Engel v. Vitale), the Supreme Court explained that the word 'church' would no longer mean a federally established denomination; it would now mean a religious activity in public.

~David Barton

And you get Thomas Paine, who's the least religious Founding Father saying, you've got to teach creation science in the classroom. Scientific method demands that.

~David Barton

The 1947 Court (Everson v. Board of Education) for the first time had used only Jefferson's metaphor - completely divorced from its context and intent.

~David Barton

It is interesting to note that during the last ten years Washington's 'Farewell Address' has begun to reappear in college textbooks - minus the four religious warnings.

~David Barton

Recent decades clearly demonstrate that the more secular our Public Schools become the less successful they become academically.

~David Barton

Only majorities can expand political rights in America's constitutional society.
