Chemistry is not anything an executive producer or writer can orchestrate or plan; you just hope for it.

~David E. Kelley

But I do believe that in all my shows, I really enjoy the quirky, the eccentric characters, the ones you don't meet every day.

~David E. Kelley

I gravitate toward the law, I think, certainly more times than not, because it's our best mechanism for legislating human behavior, and morality, and ethics.

~David E. Kelley

We also have issue oriented storylines which are an examination of an issue, be it ethical or social.

~David E. Kelley

When I really have to push and grope and scratch and claw to make a story work, that's a telltale sign that maybe something conceptually isn't right.

~David E. Kelley

In retrospect, I think it's a plus, because now we've been able to go back and spend extra time on each of those episodes and make them better.

~David E. Kelley

My court skills may have atrophied.

~David E. Kelley

Some of my high school teachers did remind me that I had an excellent imagination when it came to making up excuses.

~David E. Kelley

But Steven Bochco was smart; he knew that viewers were smart.

~David E. Kelley

I don't think I could write a straight drama.

~David E. Kelley

I don't think it's that strange that a show has sort of a bumpy beginning. It's just part and parcel of the process.

~David E. Kelley

When the stories come easily and the writing process doesn't feel laboring, that's usually a good sign for me.

~David E. Kelley

The more lawyers there are, the more people are out there to encourage others not to go to law school.

~David E. Kelley

You learn more when things go wrong.

~David E. Kelley

When you create a show, and create characters, these people are like children to you.

~David E. Kelley

I never thought of myself as a writer.

~David E. Kelley

For me, I'm happy to succeed on any network.

~David E. Kelley

I think the law changes, which is a nice luxury.

~David E. Kelley

I've never really told jokes. I'm not good at it.

~David E. Kelley

The way I personally work is I like to write what I know, what I feel, and also where I am.

~David E. Kelley

So I think a writer should write what he loves, the people he relates to.

~David E. Kelley
