The people that I associate myself with are people that are looking to make a good product because it's going to benefit them and it's going to help launch their careers.

~David Gordon Green

I'm not really worried about people's perception of what I do, or people's analysis of why I make the decisions I make. I wake up every day with a new interest and a desire for an education.

~David Gordon Green

I really strongly feel that when you approach a drama, you have to approach it with energy, honesty, sincerity, and absolute commitment, or don't do it.

~David Gordon Green

Sometimes in the studio movies I've been working in, you'll put a joke in a movie because the crowd loves it - not because I love it.

~David Gordon Green

When you say "Holy Man", I immediately think of Eddie Murphy's finest hour. If it's anything comparable, I'm excited.

~David Gordon Green

When you see somebody actually be able to channel that into an accessible, beautiful tool, you start to see the craftsman behind it.

~David Gordon Green

Every new project I do is a new invention of myself and reinvigorates me as to why I love the industry.

~David Gordon Green

I've never wanted to be a fireman, in my life. I've never really wanted to grow up and be anything other than a film director.

~David Gordon Green

I've always had great independence on everything I've done. Nobody's ever told me not to do anything.

~David Gordon Green

Everybody's got their tools or their instruments, and it's fun to see how people expose themselves to their profession or their profession becomes who they are.

~David Gordon Green

There's something within contemporary culture which is far more faux masculine than it was when men were really men.

~David Gordon Green

I've protected my protracted period of infancy. For many years. And I have no desire to become an adult.
