There are two traditions in Northern Ireland. There are two main religious denominations. But there is only one true moral denomination. And it wants peace.

~David Trimble

Politics can be likened to driving at night over unfamiliar hills and mountains. Close attention must be paid to what the beam can reach and the next bend.

~David Trimble

As we take stock of this century of achievement, Ulster Unionists have every reason to feel proud.

~David Trimble

In the future there cannot be room for ambiguity. They have to make their position absolutely clear before they can expect anyone to respond to it.

~David Trimble

I knew what I had to do as party leader had to be sensible and relate to the real situation we were in, rather than a situation you would like to have.

~David Trimble

We had the IRA ceasefire in August 1994 and a lot of people assumed that a deal had been done - which wasn't right.

~David Trimble

It wasn't too difficult to see that [Ian] Paisley would never do anything positive.

~David Trimble

I had read an early profile of [Tony] Blair by Frank Millar in which he said that Blair was very keen on the 'consent principle'.

~David Trimble

The one thing I can assure you is that I'm not going to do a Prescott.

~David Trimble

There are still substantial areas of disagreement, .. you simply have to look at the public statements to see there is a significant gap.

~David Trimble

The decision to give an indicative date for a return is a mistake. It degrades the process. It degrades human life.
