The world's best swordsman doesn't fear the second best; he fears the worst swordsman, because he can't predict what the idiot will do.

~David Weber

Oh, bother!," said Pooh, as Piglet came back from the dead.

~David Weber

Vegtables, what food eats before it becomes food.

~David Weber

My duty is not affected by what others may or may not do to discharge their own.

~David Weber

Son, you'll know you're in love when a woman's voice settles into your spine.

~David Weber

She didn't know a lot about politics - yet - but she'd learned enough in her history classes to know politics could always be counted on to make a bad situation worse.

~David Weber

All men begin as good men. What they are taught as children, what is expected of them as young men, is either the armor about that goodness or the flaw that allows evil in.

~David Weber

Your Grace," she said, "I have only one question. Do you wish this man crippled, or dead?

~David Weber

It was rumored she held grudges till they died of old age, then had them stuffed and mounted.

~David Weber

Giving orders you know won't be obeyed is one of the best ways I know to destroy your own authority.

~David Weber
