I have two favorite songs. My first is called 'Dance of The Robe' and it's a very powerful number where she is feeling the pressure from her people to take on the responsibility of leading them.

~Deborah Cox

So I place my heart under lock and key, to take some time to look after me. But when I turn around you're standing there.

~Deborah Cox

It was a dream come true performing with her and just being on the same record. So in my eyes, she was the epitome of a great voice and for us to share together was awesome.

~Deborah Cox

I'm not supposed to miss you, I'm not supposed to care

~Deborah Cox

Singers like her, Patti, Tina Turner, I revere them when I'm in their presence.

We've never performed the song live outside of recording it in the studio. That was a dream come true because Whitney, she's an icon and she's been one of my main mentors in this business.

~Deborah Cox

I really think about the times that I've been through with my husband and all the stuff that we've been through together, and I think to those moments for inspiration for the role.

~Deborah Cox

I've tried that love thing for the last time. My heart says no, no!
Nobody's supposed to be here, but you came along and changed my mind

~Deborah Cox

The second song is called 'Easy As Life,' which really describes the complete conflict of the whole story, her struggle of being in love with the enemy and also being in love with her people.

~Deborah Cox

We can't be friends Cause I'm still in love with you.

~Deborah Cox

The opportunity to record the song came when Phil Collins' record label, Atlantic, was doing a tribute album to him and they asked all these different artists to do renditions of his songs.
