Put a compass to paper and trace a circle. Then tell me which other country has such a concentration of places like Amalfi, Naples, Ischia, Procida, Sorrento, Positano, Pompeii, and Capri.

~Diego Della Valle

When I am walking in Central Park, I recognize the Italians. Because an Italian, even when he jogs, he's dressed perfect.

~Diego Della Valle

Italian style is a natural attitude. It is about a life of good taste. It doesn't have to be expensive. Simple but with good taste. Luxury is possible to buy. Good taste is not.

~Diego Della Valle

I remember perfectly my first trip to New York, when I was on the bridge between Brooklyn and Manhattan, when I saw the skyscrapers. It was like an incredible dream.

~Diego Della Valle

My father taught me respect for quality as well as a sense of dignity - great values as we face a world going in a different direction. I try to teach my children to stay close to the real things.

~Diego Della Valle

I was born and I live in a small village, where the centre of life is the square, and the small bar/cafe.

~Diego Della Valle

Image is something you construct, while reputation starts at home. If you are able to pass on solid values to your children, then they can become citizens of the world.

~Diego Della Valle

My father wasn't absolutely delighted. He wanted me to become a lawyer. I studied law, but I thought the shoe business was more exciting.

~Diego Della Valle

You try to be young, maybe you like to have a few toys, but it's not the most important thing in life.

~Diego Della Valle

When it is possible, I choose to have a quiet life.

~Diego Della Valle

I am a liberal. I want everyone to be well.

~Diego Della Valle

I hope I will be remembered as a good father and a fair employer. And a good host, of course!

~Diego Della Valle

When you work too much, you are boring - that is possible. But to have a happy life, if you can do several things in the correct way, that is perfect.

~Diego Della Valle

When I was a kid, I wanted to be a footballer and racing driver, like all kids.
